SHORT CONTENTS OF THE ENCLOSED ISSUE OF JULI JULY 20, 2018, OF OVERLEVEN DOOR WERELDRECHT = SURVIVAL BY WORLD LAW

Page 1 : World federalism : a forgotten way to peace?

In Between Two Ages, a book published in 1970, Zbigniew Brzinski, former foreign secretary of state in the U.S., writes as follows :

The tectotronic era involves the gradual appearance of a more controlled society. Such a society would be dominated by an elite, unrestrained by traditional values. Soon it will be possible to assert almost continuous surveillance of every citizen and maintain up-to-date complete files containing even the most personal information about the citizen. Those files will be subject to instantaneous retrieval by the authorities.

The “elite” he refers to, as it is reported throughout the world, wants to dominate the whole world. This, of course, is the kind of mundialism we totally reject. What we want was formulated e.g. by Mahatma Gandhi at the creation in 1945 of the UNO : “India stands for ... a world federation of free nations ...” According to Klaus Schlichtmann he also, in 1942, declared to the Pan-Indian Congress :

On the establishment of such a world federation, disarmament would be practicable in all countries; national armies, navies and air forces would no longer be necessary, and a world federal defence force would keep the world peace ... An independent India would gladly join such a world federation.

Does this remain a utopia? The reality of the survival problems of mankind coerces us to defend the necessity of the realisation of this utopia.

Page 2 : “1968” : a few impressions

Fifty years already passed since 1968. what came to the surface at that time? It is to be considered quite heterogeneous and complex. Also one feels compelled to admit that understanding such phenomena must remain limited.

“Contestation”

A key word of what was going on we find in the word “contestation”. Contestation of what by whom? Mostly it was about protests of young people. They no longer wanted to be treated as non-persons by older people representing the established (dis)order. Above all in the ranks of university students the unrest stirred up. Unlike younger schoolchildren they are old enough to speak for themselves. They also find themselves in a relatively independent position : unlike employees / workers or civil servants they have not to fear losing their job and their income when “making trouble”.

Spring of Prague

An overwhelming desire for humanity, justice and freedom poured across national frontiers and even across bloc boundaries. In previous Czechoslovakia the dictatorial regime was resisted to by a, more or less general, non-violent movement. "Socialism with a human face," was scanned. One remembers the goodhearted person of Dubcek and how Moscow considered what was happening in the satellite country a felony. Troops of the Warsaw Pact invaded the country and jugulated the Spring of Prague. Exception made for the countries of the Soviet bloc this heartbreaking event gave rise to general indignation. Even the Western communist parties condemned the invasion. This may also be considered a sign of the time : trenches were left which one had stayed in for decades.

"Make love, not war" + violent revolution

Gentleness and a big craving for humanity, enjoying life, living in community ("communes") and alternative spirituality or mysticism gave the tone. However, the atmosphere was not non-violent only. Also violent revolution was preached. Dr. Ernesto Guevara ("Che") stood for a merciless armed war between the classes. He nevertheless found fans throughout the world, even in circles objectively or as to mentality belonging tot the "bourgeoisie".

Furthermore, a wave of sexual permissiveness fled throughout the whole of society. In spite of the publication of the encyclical Humanae Vitae, baptized by some Inhumanae Vitae, the use of the contraceptive pill broke through on a wide scale. To the possible quite negative consequences this product might have in the long run not too much attention was paid as a rule. Also the damaging effect of the use of drugs was sometimes evaluated insufficiently.

Peace movements got new wind in the sail. There also came more and more young men, at least in Western democracies, who (from that time often on somewhat politically tainted grounds) refused compulsory military service. In March of 1965, on the first session of the Belgian (Dutch speaking) Council on Conscientious Objection, we were no more than a dozen of conscripts to demand the legal status of conscientious objector. In the following years, in our region only, there gradually came many thousands of conscripts declaring themselves unwilling to join the armed forces. We regret that they mostly showed indifference to the idea of world federalism as a way to peace.

What has remained of "1968"?

Lots of things loosened that are still characterizing live or society today, although it is difficult to evaluate this precisely. What remains sure is that consciousness about the pollution of the environment has spread swiftly after sixty-eight. Also the renewal of the women's liberation movement has led to achievements. At the time, hardly any lady could be found in Belgian parliament. Today forty-six percent of the members of the Flemish high assembly belong to the female part of humanity.

Seventy years ago

Already Seventy years have past since the creation of the Registry, which took place in Paris, where the UNO gathered at the time. Commemorations of the event are held on November 12, 18 and 19 in the said city, in a room of the UNESCO and possibly in the building of the French Senate. You find more information on the mentioned websites or you can write to one of the addresses.

Page 4 : Conscientious Objection in Germany

After the second world war West-Germany had more conscientious objectors than any other place on earth. We thought that conscientious objection in that country constituted no problem as a rule. From an emission of the ARD, however, broadcasted on March 12, we learn that the council on conscientious objection refused to recognize many conscripts. An atmosphere of arbitrary prevailed : one never knew who would be recognized and who not. In the eighties, however, there was no longer an examination of the objection. After that up to forty percent of the young men refused military service and choose to accomplish a civil service.

In East-Germany the situation was not comparable at all. In 1965 there came some sort of a legal status, i.e. a decree of Walter Ulbricht. But the stipulations in that text were partly totally inadmissible, so that in our opinion maybe no law would have been preferable to such a law. Moreover, the objectors doing civil service were obliged to work twelve hours a day, in a camp guarded by men wearing guns...

The monstrous activity of “Dr. Mengele was not unique. Before him and after him enormous cruelties of a comparable type were perpetrated in East and West. See on :

Hitler already, in Mein Kampf, explained how to slowly and imperceptibly deprive people from their liberty by apparently small and systematic measures. We cannot escape the feeling that something comparable might be happening in our time.

On the following video Kevin Shipp, ex-agent of the CIA, explains how what he calls the shadow government and the deep state, despising the constitution, are dominating society and are committing crimes in all impunity. By “shadow government” he means several secret agencies and groups connected with them. The “deep state” for him are big financial and industrial corporations, who buy all the scientists and other collaborators they need and compel them to keep silent about what they know.

This general obligation for collaborators is also reported by a previous secret agent like the physicist Barrie Trower. Those who report criminal activities lose their job, their income, their status and their lives are made impossible in a variety of ways.

On the video mentioned below Ronald Bernards speaks about financial cliques, to a large extent Satanists practicing paedophilia and ritual murderers, who are trying to dominate the whole financial and industrial world.

Under this name in the GDR there was a whole program of stalking, meant to destroy lives without touching the victims. According to Soziale Netzwerke something like this is existing in Western countries :

On television, on May 21, we saw a terrible documentary about the unspeakable suffering caused by unexplainable shootings and assassinations. Unfortunately, the question was not raised which evil cryptocracies, using possibly hypnosis, are behind it and have the aim to deprive us from all our liberties.

Page 8 : “Atomic Soldiers”

Also on May 21, on television, we saw a documentary about soldiers who on purpose had been exposed to radio-active fallout during nuclear explosions. From that time on their life changed into a hell. It was a great pity to hear survivors tell their story. Search further on the internet. Of course, facts of the same type happened in e.g. Russia, as was reported among others by Andrei Saccharov.

Page 8 : FEMA

FEMA, i.e. the Federal Emergency Management Agency, according to several sources, should actually be considered a concentration- and execution-camp. According to Ted Gundersen, previous agent of the FBI, 30,000 guillotines would stay in 800 known camps. In war or the like dissidents or presumed dissidents would be arrested and incarcerated, viz. executed there. Search FEMA on the internet.

Tens of thousands of persons, in over a hundred countries, had themselves registered as world citizens in the past. Nowadays, a registration point like the RW is losing most of the world citizens registered by it : due to death and to moving without giving us their new address. Please, if you move or if you change e-mail address, don't forget to let us know.

We spend very little money, but cannot do without any. For the moment we have a debt of about one hundred euro. Please help us by transferring a donation to :
